Bailey Bram

Keynote Speaker

Bailey Bram, 2018 Olympian, Canadian Women's Ice Hockey

Bailey Bram has been wearing the maple leaf internationally since 2007 when she was a member of the Under-18 National Team. In 2008 she helped the Canadian team capture silver at the IIHF U-18 Women's World Championship. After spending a few years playing for the Under-22 National Team, Bram debuted with the National Women's Team in 2012. She helped the team win the gold medal at the 2012 IIHF Women's World Championship before adding a silver medal in 2013. Bram was centralized with the National Women's Team before the 2014 Olympic Winter Games but was one of the final cuts from the Sochi roster. Using that as motivation, she has since played on three more world championship teams, winning silver in 2015, 2016 and 2017, and this year Bram is playing for Team Canada at the Olympics in PyeongChang.

Bram played her collegiate hockey at Mercyhurst University in Erie, Pennsylvania. Prior to that, Bram went to school at Balmoral Hall in Winnipeg, Manitoba, and played hockey with the Balmoral Hall Blazers.
